Re: Letter of Recommendation Business and Teaching – Kenton H Johnson, Denver CO

I'm the President and Owner at BioAge, which specializes in advanced nutritionals and functional foods and other wellness products that conform to the ways of nature. I've authored two books on the science of bio-algae concentrates, Awakening the Genius Within and The Magic is BAC. I've lectured and educated clients on holistic health, the science of bio-algae concentrates, nutrition and energy medicine throughout Canada and the USA. More at LinkedIn.

Kenton founded and actively directed Complementary Wellness association, of which I was a former client-member, on full-spectrum healthcare, from 1996 until mid-2004, producing four books in Denver, Boulder and New Orleans, and in 1999, the pioneering, international website, CompWellness.net (which many of his clients contributed, he created or edited, and is still intact). In 1998, he formed an association with his clients, holding many educational meetings on business and health, in which I participated. He extended his service to members at no additional charge, by authoring, co-authoring, editing, publishing and distributing the Complementary Wellness Directory in Denver and Boulder (6-16pp each, bi-monthly, 2001-2003). He also maintained website beyond 2004, then sold in 2012.

Kenton help me published The Magic is BAC, editing and collaborating on the text, design and distribution. Samples and full list of his many publications are at KentonHJohnson.com.

At the many networking and educational gatherings, including a joint conference with National Fitness Therapy Association, Kenton lectured, giving solid advice and providing strong encouragement. He presented very well, was always well prepared, and collaborated with his audience to maximize the presentations.

His main focus was building all his client-members' businesses, enhancing marketing, networking, engagement, business management and the use of available technology.

Kenton is very capable with technology, teaching his client-members how to successfully use technology better and develop their businesses more, as well as building and hosting some of their websites, many of which are still active in nearly the same design.

His web marketing model is documented at GOgitMMMreport.Prospersystems.biz, which he used to teach his local sales club and clients.

I recommend Kenton as a top-flight consultant, organizer and teacher.

Re: Letter of Recommendation, Business and Teaching – Kenton H Johnson, Denver CO

I'm Thomas Kruse, retired Senior Long-Range Planner at the Denver Water Department (DWD) who has developed a large portfolio of real estate properties as well as additional businesses around Denver.

I was one of three interviewers who examined nine resumes and questioned applicants including Kenton, for an opening a systems analyst position able to help engineers and planners with scientific applications and model development. I highly recommended Kenton to the Water Department because of his strong education, Professional Engineer's license, his ability to translate highly technical computer terms into Planners', Engineers' and even Customer Service Representative' language, as well as grasping the technical aspects of the Planning, Engineering and Operations Departments.

He proved me correct, working with me and others in all levels in his position as "Scientific Consultant" from 1976 to 78, in our transition to a new, large Univac 1106/8, DWD-wide time sharing computer system.

He taught Planners, Engineers and Customer Service Representatives, securing their understanding in "Introduction to Computers," three levels of FORTRAN courses, as well as one-on-one training in my department on complex water modeling of South Platte and Colorado River systems, statewide. This 200-page* model was new technology which was later used for the environmental impact statement of Two Forks Reservoir. It was audited by Harza Engineering Inc, one of the ten largest worldwide water engineering firms: three doctorate-level modeling experts performed the audit and found it to be state of the art and error free.

At educational events, including the Special Interest Group on Scientific Computing that he formed and sponsored in Denver, he and other guest speakers were always well prepared, and collaborated with his audience to maximize the presentations.

Kenton is very capable with technology, teaching DWD employees how to use technology better and develop computer models, as well as creating software libraries and publishing a bi-monthly newsletter.

I also worked with him on some of my real estate projects. He quickly understood the record-keeping and analysis requirements for the projects, and consulted with me on better ways to evaluate and manage the projects. During the 1970 to 2007 period, I had more than 250 rental units. Nine of the properties ranged from 4 to 52 units. We converted a 52-unit apartment building to condos at a profit exceeding $500,000. I plan to use him on other business projects.

I recommend Kenton as a superior businessman, consultant and teacher.

Subject: Recommendation - Kenton H. Johnson, Denver CO

I am pleased to recommend Kenton H. Johnson as an instructor and manager of professional development programs for engineers and other technical professionals.

For many decades, the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Department of Engineering Professional Development \(EPD\), has offered cutting-edge short courses, certificate programs and licensing credits for today's working professionals.

In collaboration with EPD from 1981-85, Kenton taught more than twenty "Computers and You" courses (with additional courses taught for other technical organizations around the country), as well as other courses such as: "Your Computer Opportunity - Managing It," "Computers and Building Design," "Integrating and Managing Microcomputers in Architecture and Engineering," and "Microcomputer Applications Tutorials." I was an EPD program director whom he was working with at that time.

At the many educational and follow-on networking events he was always well prepared, made excellent presentations, provided comprehensive course notes and worked effectively with his audience to maximize the experiential learning.

Kenton was adept with technology, teaching our course participants how to improve their use of computer technology and successfully incorporate computers into their work—many for the first time.

After successfully teaching several courses, EPD made Kenton an ad-hoc program director to develop, schedule, create brochures and coordinate the marketing for many of his courses with us.

We explored having Kenton expand the teaching of "Computers and You" via satellite to several locations around the country, but in the mid 1980s the economics was not there. However, I'm confident that Kenton would have been excellent in that new teaching medium.

I can recommend Kenton as a superior teacher, manager and consultant.

Since I am currently out of the country for several months, I will be happy to answer any questions you have by email.

Sincerely--Don

To whom it may concern,

CompWellness and particularly Kent Johnson consulted with me when I was just hitting the road with BioAge. Kent helped my company jump-started sales, by helping me directly with sales concepts and marketing strategies.

Through the organization and the networking opportunities it delivers, I was able to developed many relationships in Denver, several that eventually became distributors of our products. As a new member of the health provider community in Denver, I felt immediately at home in the organization.

During the mastermind breakfasts, I had access to a group of professionals with whom to brainstorm ideas and even make commitments and achieve goals. These breakfasts have board meeting like quality.

I was able to publish my first book, The Magic of Bio-Algae Concentrates ~ The Michael Kiriak Story via the publishing arm of CompWellness. Many thanks to Kent Johnson, whom was instrumental when providing his expertise in editing and publishing.

Dear Kent,

We have found the CompWellness Network to be invaluable for networking. I have not been able to attend the breakfasts due to my work schedule but the evening meetings and the Experiential Exchange in particular have been very valuable. The Experiential Exchange gave us a chance to experience the work of other practitioners and get to know them better than is possible at a regular meeting.

As a result, we ended up using the services and products of several of the practitioners we met there and some of them became our customers. For instance, I bought Z-Coil shoes from Donna at Footopia, which have been a lifesaver for my feet and legs, and Donna has promoted my canine massage business, with the assistance of her dog Loki. She even brought Loki to a TV station for me early one Sunday morning so I could use him in our TV spot.

Russell and I both use the physiotherapy services of Doug Olmsted, who we met at the Exchange, and lately I have been trading canine massage on his dogs for his services. He also refers clients to me for canine massage.

So I feel the networking aspect of CWPA has been very valuable for our business, helping us connect up with other practitioners to use each others' services as well as send each other referrals.

Sincerely,

Margaret Auld-Louie
